MGEX Launches New Real Estate Website

MINNEAPOLIS – MGEX (Minneapolis Grain Exchange or Exchange) Real Estate has launched its new website at www.mgex.com/realestate to provide current and prospective tenants of the historic Minneapolis Grain Exchange Buildings information they need about leasing, amenities, and services. The website also presents some of the buildings' history and information about downtown Minneapolis.

Each of the three Grain Exchange Buildings is unique in size, structure, and history. Information provided on all three buildings includes statistics, historical facts and sample office layouts. Another page has information on the "Five Easy Steps to Leasing," as well as tips on what to look for when leasing office space.

The "Amenities and Services" page includes information on the amenities and services offered in the buildings. There is also a tenant-specific web page designed to help tenants take full advantage of building offerings. In addition, this page includes information about night access, emergency procedures and other helpful building items.

The Grain Exchange Buildings, located in downtown Minneapolis, are surrounded by a wide range of entertainment offerings. Many are highlighted on the "Corner of 4th and 4th" page along with links to some of the top Twin Cities entertainment websites. Other benefits of working downtown are included as well.

"The MGEX Real Estate website provides an opportunity to open a better channel for two-way communication between tenants and the Real Estate team," Blake Tiedeman, Director, Real Estate Operations said. "It offers 24 hour access to building resources for current and prospective tenants, allowing business to be done on the tenant's schedule."

For more information about the history of the Minneapolis Grain Exchange Buildings, there is streaming video on the Real Estate website. For a DVD version, contact Dee Evertz, devertz@mgex.com. The Grain Merchants, An Illustrated History of the Minneapolis Grain Exchange by Dave Kenney, is also a great resource and is listed at www.mgex.com/GrainExchangeMerchandise.html.
